

WHITE WATER GUIDE TRAINING

Project Great Outdoors is seeking applicants for our 2010 guide trainings,
April 3-4 & April 10-18, 2010 or June 18-19 and 25-July 4

Participants in this 11 day program will learn the fundamental hard, soft and meta skills required to guide an inflatable raft on a class III river like the South Fork of the American River. The training is offered as a "shared-cost" experience and financial aid is available for deserving candidates. The $500 fee includes camping, all meals, all equipment and instruction for 11 days. In return for this training, we ask that participants volunteer a day or two (or as many as possible!) guiding our program trips, which are offered to under-served youth in Northern California for as little as $15 per participant. We seek like-minded individuals with experience in working with young people, facilitation and outdoor leadership.

No river running experience is required!

Visit www.projectgo.org for more information and an application.

Already a guide? Want more stick time? Want to share your love of the river?
Want to make a difference in kids' lives? Contact serena@projectgo.org

The mission of Project Great Outdoors is to guide youth towards broader perspectives and self discovery in the great outdoors!

Project GO is a 501C3 non-profit.
PO BOX 360, Coloma, CA 95613 888.827.8859